*Note: The text in all pages should NOT be blue. It should be black to look for professional; only the links should be turning purple if clicked on already.

This current design is fine. However, the list should be based on what people searched the most today. For example, people search for jobs a lot. So jobs will always be on the front page. However, one day people might search for mechanical engineering jobs a lot and some might search for biochemistry jobs. More priority should be given to jobs related to that specific category.

Also, people do not go on Craigslist to search for jobs they don' t know about usually. They have a specific idea on what jobs to look for. The front page should be based on what people usually searched for in the past, but not dominate the page with those results.
